

FLAHERTY & CRUMRINE PREFERRED SECURITIES INCOME FUND

To the Shareholders of Flaherty & Crumrine Preferred Securities Income Fund (“FFC”):

The Fund’s year is off to a strong start, benefiting from a rebound in prices of preferred securities in the first fiscal quarter<sup>1</sup>. Total return<sup>2</sup> on net asset value (“NAV”) was 7.4% for the quarter, while total return on market price was 4.5%.

To say investors had a lot to think about in late 2016 would be an understatement, and markets were weaker and more volatile leading up to year-end as a result. A contentious November election was settled in a way that surprised many, and interest rates moved higher in anticipation of infrastructure spending and tax and regulatory reform. The Federal Reserve raised its benchmark fed funds rate in December and projected three additional hikes in 2017 (one of which came in March), as the U.S. economy showed signs of continued gradual improvement. Once the dust settled, however, investors began looking ahead to what all these changes could mean for the economy, corporate profitability, and credit conditions—and outlooks were generally favorable.

Even though interest rates moved higher following the election, rates quickly stabilized at those new levels, and they remain low overall by historical standards—especially if we broaden our view to include global interest rates. Higher rates should generate higher earnings for banks and insurance companies and further strengthen credit quality at these companies, which comprise the bulk of the preferred market. They also have offered the Fund opportunities to reinvest proceeds from redeemed securities at higher yields than we might have expected several quarters ago.

The rebound in prices of preferred securities was broad, but a few sectors led the way for portfolio performance. Fixed-to-float securities continue to be in demand, as investors seek reasonable income with moderate interest-rate duration. During the quarter, securities with 2-5 years to their float date outperformed those with 5-10 years—but nearly all fixed-to-float securities benefited from the market’s evolving view on short-term rates. Not long ago, investors were concerned about short-term rates being stuck near a zero-bound (or even negative), but recent Fed rate hikes (and projections for more) have removed much of that worry. As of February 28, 2017, 62% of the portfolio was in fixed-to-float securities. Preferred securities also benefited from positive inflows at mutual funds and exchange-traded funds that focus on this market.

A detailed policy discussion is outside the scope of this letter, but regulation is one area worth touching upon. Banks and financial companies are heavily regulated (preferred securities are primarily issued to satisfy regulatory capital requirements), so any relief in regulation could further accrete into earnings over time. A trade-off exists as regulation can enhance the safety and soundness of a company and the entire financial system, but we believe near-term regulatory changes likely would enhance earnings without materially impacting overall creditworthiness of the sector. For our broader policy review and related market implications, please see “Discussion Topics” in the 2016 annual report—available on the Fund’s website.

Preferred securities continue to benefit from a global search for yield, strong credit quality, and favorable technical factors. U.S. banks have largely filled their regulatory “buckets” for preferred securities, so going forward supply will be driven primarily by organic growth and refinancing of older securities. Supply from foreign issuers is likely to be more robust due to a longer timetable for transitioning to new capital requirements than U.S. banks, but it should remain manageable. Strong demand from yield buyers and moderate supply should continue to support prices of preferred securities. We believe this combination of fundamental and technical factors will continue to make preferred securities attractive to long-term investors.

As always, we encourage you to visit the Fund’s website, www.preferredincome.com, for timely and important information.

Sincerely,

The Flaherty & Crumrine Portfolio Management Team

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (Unaudited)

1. Aggregate Information for Federal Income Tax Purposes

At February 28, 2017, the aggregate cost of securities for federal income tax purposes was $1,304,501,412, the aggregate gross unrealized appreciation for all securities in which there was an excess of value over tax cost was $84,338,972 and the aggregate gross unrealized depreciation for all securities in which there was an excess of tax cost over value was $102,812,897.

2. Additional Accounting Standards

Fair Value Measurements: The Fund has analyzed all existing investments to determine the significance and character of all inputs to their fair value determination. The levels of fair value inputs used to measure the Fund's investments are characterized into a fair value hierarchy. Where inputs for an asset or liability fall into more than one level in the fair value hierarchy, the investment is classified in its entirety based on the lowest level input that is significant to that investment's valuation. The three levels of the fair value hierarchy are described below:

- Level 1 – quoted prices in active markets for identical securities
- Level 2 – other significant observable inputs (including quoted prices for similar securities, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)
- Level 3 – significant unobservable inputs (including the Fund's own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments)

The inputs or methodology used for valuing securities are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those securities. Transfers in and out of levels are recognized at market value at the end of the period.

A summary of the inputs used to value the Fund's investments as of February 28, 2017 is as follows:

During the reporting period, there were no transfers into Level 1 from Level 2 or into Level 2 from Level 1.

The fair values of the Fund's investments are generally based on market information and quotes received from brokers or independent pricing services that are approved by the Board of Directors and are unaffiliated with the Adviser. To assess the continuing appropriateness of security valuations, management, in consultation with the Adviser, regularly compares current prices to prior prices, prices across comparable securities, actual sale prices for securities in the Fund's portfolio, and market information obtained by the Adviser as a function of being an active market participant.

Securities with quotes that are based on actual trades or actionable bids and offers with a sufficient level of activity on or near the measurement date are classified as Level 1. Securities that are priced using quotes derived from implied values, indicative bids and offers, or a limited number of actual trades—or the same information for securities that are similar in many respects to those being valued—are classified as Level 2. If market information is not available for securities being valued, or materially-comparable securities, then those securities are classified as Level 3. In considering market information, management evaluates changes in liquidity, willingness of a broker to execute at the quoted price, the depth and consistency of prices from pricing services, and the existence of observable trades in the market.

| Transfers out                                    | —                 | —                               | —   |
| Balance as of 02/28/17                    | $158,513         | $52,650                        | $105,863                                       |

For the three months ended February 28, 2017, total change in unrealized gain/(loss) on Level 3 securities still held at period-end and included in the change in net assets was $8,507.

The following table summarizes the valuation techniques used and unobservable inputs developed to determine the fair value of Level 3 investments:

| Category   | Fair Valueat 02/28/17 | Valuation Technique                              | Unobservable Input                    | Input Range (Wgt Avg) |
|--|---------------------------|--|---------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| Preferred Securities(Banking)                    | $ 52,650                 | Bankruptcy recovery                              | Credit/Structure-specificrecovery | 0.00% - 0.50% (0.15%) |
| Corporate DebtSecurities(Financial Services) | 105,863                   | Bankruptcy recoveryand marketinformation | Credit/Structure-specificrecovery | 2% - 5% (2.2%)        |

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement technique for bankruptcy recovery are based on recovery analysis that is specific to the security being valued, including the level of subordination and structural features of the security, and the current status of any bankruptcy or liquidation proceedings. Observable market trades in bankruptcy claims are utilized by management, when available, to assess the appropriateness of valuations, although the frequency of trading depends on the specific credit and seniority of the claim. Expected recoveries in bankruptcy by security type and industry do not tend to deviate much from historical recovery rates, which are very low (sometimes zero) for preferred securities and more moderate for senior debt. Significant changes in these inputs would result in a significantly higher or lower fair value measurement.
